About Flickr.com, a Yahoo! Property

About Flickr

Flickr - almost certainly the best online photo management and sharing application in the world - has two main goals:

1. We want to help people make their content available to the people who matter to them.

May be they want to keep a blog of moments captured on their cameraphone, or may be they want to show off their best pictures or video to the whole world in a bid for web celebrity. Or may be they want to securely and privately share photos of their kids with their family across the country. Flickr makes all these things possible and more!

To do this, we want to get photos and video into and out of the system in as many ways as we can: from the web, from mobile devices, from the users' home computers and from whatever software they are using to manage their content. And we want to be able to push them out in as many ways as possible: on the Flickr website, in RSS feeds, by email, by posting to outside blogs or ways we haven't thought of yet. What else are we going to use those smart refrigerators for?

Flickr is the WD-40 that makes it easy to get photos or video from one person to another in whatever way they want.

2. We want to enable new ways of organizing photos and video.

Sharing Photos

- Why we share anything
- Prints are expensive, non-ecological
- Websites are plentiful and cheap
- “A photo taken but not shared might just as well have never been taken”
- “A photo published but never seen, commented on, used, is not being shared...”
- Your Legacy might be just the few permanent bits you leave behind on the Internet

Sharing Photos...

- Why Flickr and not Picasaweb, SmugMug, Webshots, Pbase, Photo.net, dotPhoto, Kodak, Shutterfly, Epson, Piczo... (relationships, reach, permanency...)
- Private family moments
- Web celebrity
- Documentation and science
- Art and appreciation
- Community
- Creative Commons & Wikimedia/pedia

Sharing by e-mail

- Bad Netiquette
- Flickr can notify you by e-mail of new images added by contacts, friends, family
- FlickrMail facilitates one-to-one correspondence without exposing your e-mail address

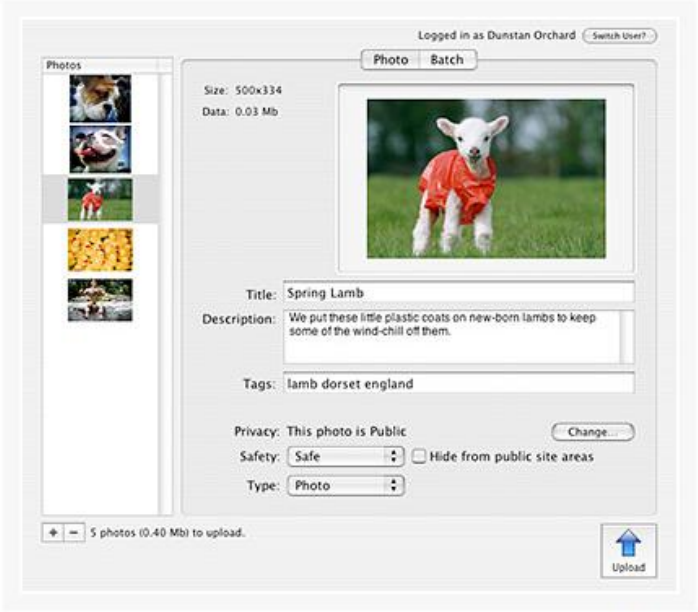
Upload

There are 5 simple ways to upload your photos and videos to Flickr

- via the Flickr Uploadr (available for both PC and Mac)
- via iPhoto, Aperture, or Windows XP plugins
- via our upload web page
- via email
- via various free third-party desktop programs



The Flickr Uploadr

And if you're not near a computer? Snap a photo or video on your mobile phone, email it to Flickr, and have it appear on the site in seconds.

Edit

Editing your photos is easy with our partner, Picnik. Get rid of red eye, crop a photo or get creative with loads of different effects!

If this is the first time you've clicked on the "Edit Photos" button, you will be asked to pass through the step of authorizing Picnik to load up your photos. (You'll only have to do this once.)

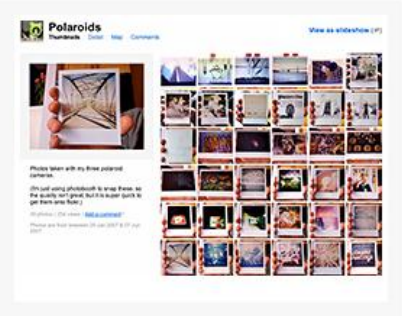
Organize

Sets are a grouping of photos and videos that you can organize around a certain theme, such as Our Hawaii Trip. You can use them to highlight your favorite photos and videos, or make an album that is only pictures of your dog, or of photos and videos you've taken with a particular camera.

A user's sets page



A set

Collections are a grouping of Sets (or other Collections) so you can organize around grander themes, such as People, Travels, or by year (2007, 2006, etc).

A user's Collections Page

A Collection

The Organizr is where both Collections and Sets are created. It also allows you to perform common tasks on large batches of photos and videos, such as tagging, changing permissions, or editing timestamps. It's really rather handy.

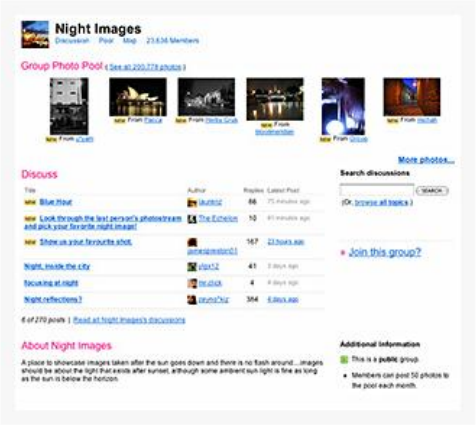
Share

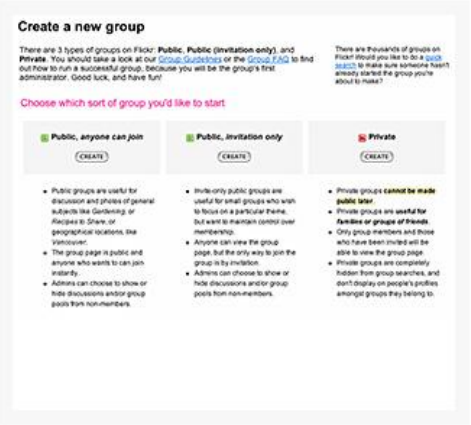
With millions of users, and hundreds of millions of photos and videos, Flickr is an amazing photographic community, with sharing at its heart.

Groups are a way for people to come together around a common interest, be it a love of small dogs, a passion for food, a recent wedding, or an interest in exploring photographic techniques. And if you can't find a group which interests you, it's super-easy to start your own.

Groups can either be public, public (invite only), or completely private. Every group has a pool for sharing photos and videos and a discussion board for talking.



A group's homepage



Creating a new group

Privacy is a common area for concern on the web, but on Flickr it's easy to control who you share your images with. For each of your photos and videos on Flickr you can set:

- privacy level, which determines who can see your image
- usage license, so your copyrights are protected
- content type, flag your photos and videos as either photos and videos, artwork/illustrations, or screenshots
- safety level, so other members only see images within their specified comfort zones

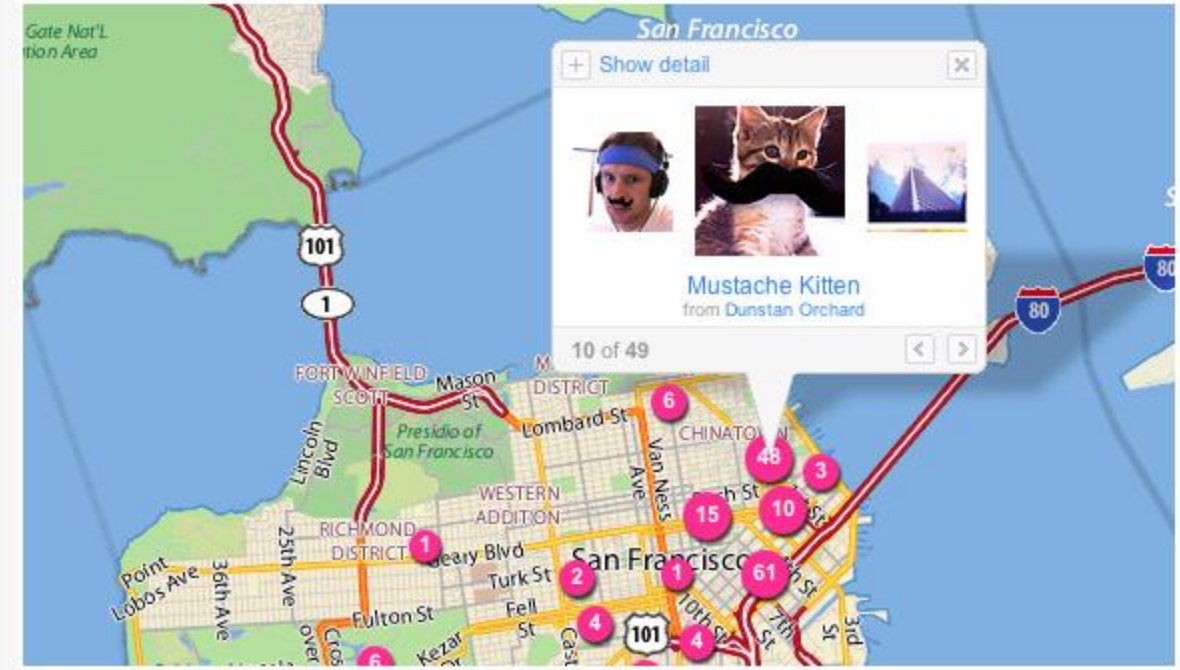
Maps

Great shot - where'd you take that?

Flickr's great for exploring photos and videos by photographer, tag, time, text, and group, and now it's also great for exploring photos and videos by place.



Map showing geotagged photos

Drag-and-drop your photos and videos onto a map (using the Organizr) to show where you took them, or browse a world map to see where other people have been and what they saw.

Make Stuff

Prints, calling cards, photo-books, slideshow-DVDs, postage stamps, and much more.

Once you've got your images onto Flickr, you, or anyone else you give permission to, can create a host of fun, physical things with them. Here are a few examples of what Flickr members have already made.

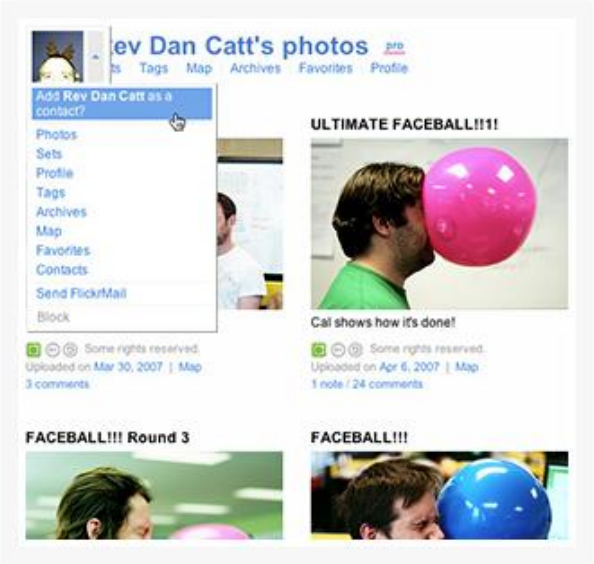
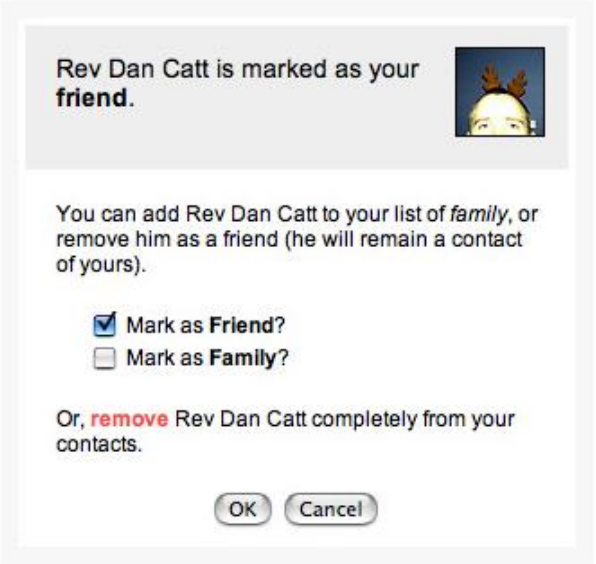
Keep in Touch

Friends, Family, and Contacts

Building relationships on Flickr is easy. When you add someone as a contact you can also choose to add them as your Friend or Family (or both).



Adding a contact is easy



Choosing one or more contact-types

Using the "Contacts" page, or by subscribing to a daily email, you're able to keep up to date with what your buddies are doing. And they can do the same for you.

Guest Pass

If you'd like to share your private photos and videos with people who don't have a Flickr account (like, your Grandma, or friends from a wedding), you can use our Guest Pass feature to grant them special access. You're able to expire the passes whenever you like.

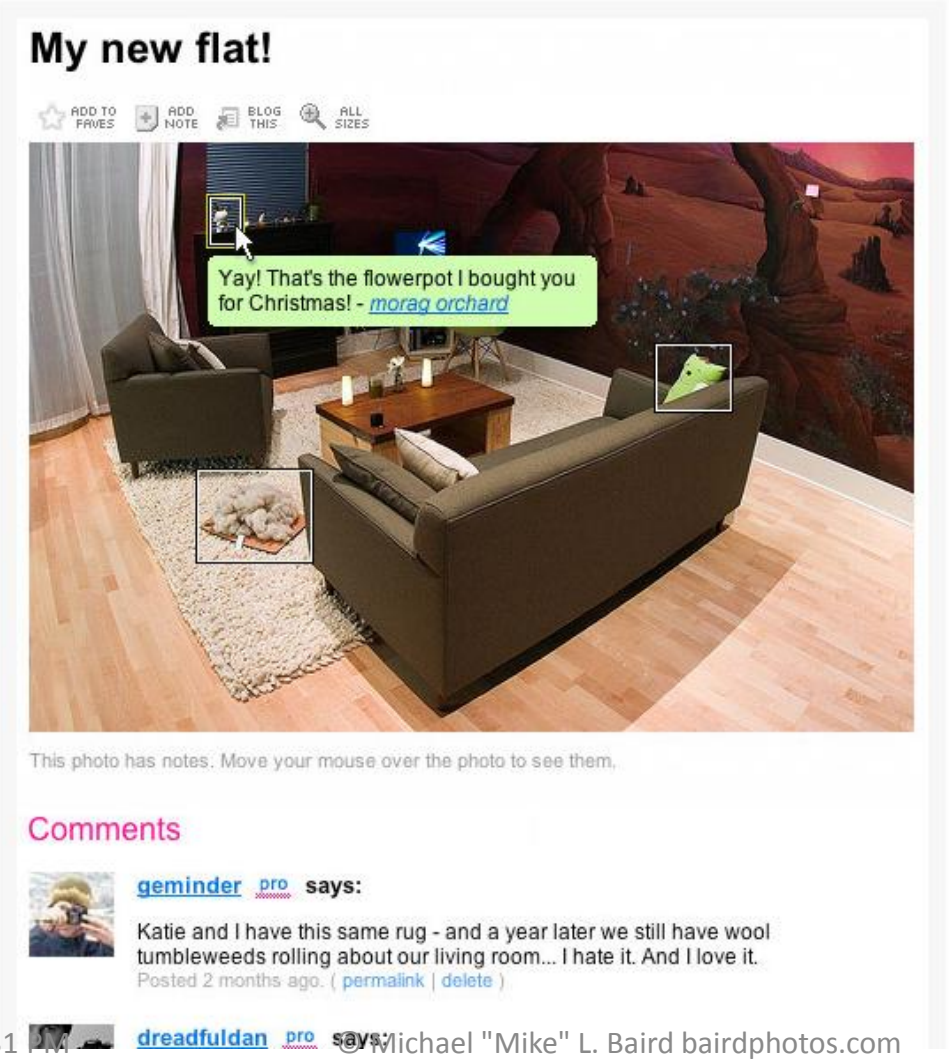
Notes and Comments

Posting photos and videos for friends and family to see is much more rewarding when they're able to leave you feedback. Notes allow contacts to leave messages directly on your photos and videos (don't worry, they only appear when you mouseover the image), while comments allow for a more general discussion below the image.



Flickr is Free or ~$25/year

- Yahoo! owns Flickr and has stated that they will never delete an image unless the owner deletes it.
- Free account has some limits – but is a good way to learn.
- The best way to learn Flickr is to use it and experiment with all the settings and options
- “Pro” account allows unlimited uploads, unlimited sets, 20MB images...

Pro Accounts ~$25/year

What do I get with a Pro account?

When you upgrade to a Pro account for just US$24.95 a year (or R$45.90 if you're in Brazil) you get all this:

- Unlimited photo uploads (20MB per photo)
- Unlimited video uploads (90 seconds max, 500MB per video)
- The ability to show HD Video

Compare that to what you get with a Free Account:

- 2 video uploads each month (90 seconds max, 150MB per video)
- Photostream views limited to the 200 most recent images
- Post any of your photos in up to 10 group pools
- Only smaller (resized) images accessible (though the originals are saved in case you upgrade later)

Your Flickr Photos will Never be Deleted

- http://www.flickr.com/help/limits/#84

says... Q: Are my photos ever deleted? A: your photos will not be deleted, unless you do it yourself, or fail to play by our Community Guidelines

Strategies & Philosophies

- Upload one or two photos per day
- Upload every photo taken
- Reputation – do you want friends notified of your junk images?
- Flickr is used by some of the biggest names in the business as a way to interact with their community – but in these cases Flickr supplements other more professional web presences.
- Flickr's TOS prohibit commercialism

27 Sept. 2008 National Geographic submission caption: Northern Elephant Seals (Mirounga angustirostris) - two males fighting for territory and mates. Taken in early morning light at Piedras Blancas, San Simeon, CA 02 Feb 2008. Elephant Seals are of the Phocidae ("true seals") family, and derive their name from their great size and from the male's large proboscis, which is used in making loud roaring noises, especially during the mating competition shown here. Impressive as they look in their mass and ferocity, these two males are not fully mature. My NG Gallery.

kevincole says:
"Mike can often be found walking a trail in search of wildlife to photograph, or helping another photo enthusiast with his or her camera. It is easy to spot Mike in his signature red sweatshirt, Tilley hat and a camera hung over his shoulder with a large white lens attached. Mike has been a California State Park volunteer docent for many years donating his time in sharing his knowledge and experiences with others. If you meet Mike on the street don't be surprised if you get a persona invite to join one or all of the photography groups that he has started in hopes of inspiring others to take those photos and share them with others. You will quickly find that Mike's passion for photography goes far beyond personal gains to include helping others expand their photographic skills and technical knowledge. Friends like Mike don't come along every day and I am happy to have him as a friend and a fellow photog. Keep up the good work Mike!"

If you are using one of my photos under a Creative Common license (most are licensed for use with attribution), please attribute the photo in one of the ways as follows (listed in order of preference):
Michael "Mike" L. Baird, flickr.bairdphotos.com {link either text or the image to the specific source image comment and overview page} or Mike Baird, flickr.bairdphotos.com or if you have very limited space flickr.bairdphotos.com
and if purposed online, please link your text or image to my related Flickr image comment and overview page - I want viewers to know exactly where the source image you are using is located, not just the domain within which it is housed. This is the biggest failing of people who use my images. I would appreciate a note via Flickr mail or directly to mike [at} mikebaird d o t com indicating which image was used (please include the URL to the framed image comment page - not just "your otter" or a link to a static farm .jpg). If appropriate I will add to the image description a link to your project. You are also encouraged to add a comment to the photo with links to its use by you, and add tags (labels) to further enhance its visibility. If you use my image(s) in a printed publication or video production, I'd love to get via postal mail a copy of the publication or tear sheets for my portfolio if practicable. Mail to Michael L. Baird, 2756 Indigo Circle, Morro Bay, CA 93442. USA. Life is short, and I get a kick out of seeing others enjoy my images in a responsible way. mike [at} mikebaird d o t com
Be sure to use the full-resolution versions available under "all sizes" for best reproduction. If you are using my image(s) in a composite such as a slideshow, screen-saver, flash package, etc., it must be clearly evident which images are mine via watermarks and/or embedded/attached list of sources. It is not adequate to have a credits page elsewhere that states "some images are used from bairdphotos.com etc." This last point is especially relevant for for-profit uses of my images that are not purely non-profit, charitable, or educational in nature.
Paintings/Drawings: Artists are welcome to use my Creative Commons Attribution photos as well as a basis for a drawing or painting in exchange for attribution. If an image of your artwork based on my photo is displayed online, attribution should be as specified above and state for example, "partially based on a photo from Michael "Mike" L. Baird." The same note should be used in any printed description of the work. If you also post your paintings on Flickr it would be cool if you add a comment at my source photo to your version, and at your painting, linking the two together.
Advertising use: Unless otherwise noted, my Flickr photos of people do not have signed model releases. Advertising usage of my photos (e.g., in brochures, catalogs, print ads) is very different from editorial usage (e.g., in newspaper, magazines, books). Neither you, nor even I, can use my people photos in any form of advertising, especially if any people in the photo are recognizable and might be interpreted as endorsing a product, service, cause, candidate, etc.

About Morro Photo Expo 2009

Photo sharing for participants of the Morro Bay, CA 2009 Morro Photo Expo held Oct. 23-25, 2009. See photomorrobay.com for a related gateway to our photomorrobay Yahoo! Group for discussion, events, polls, calendaring; and our photomorrobay Flickr Group for non-Photo Morro Expo 2009 specific photo sharing and critique in and around Morro Bay, CA.

Photos added to this group should ideally (but don't have to) be taken during your visit to Morro Bay, CA in or around Oct. 23-25, 2009, coinciding with the 2009 Morro Photo Expo. If you want to seed the group with some stimulating and typical local shots go ahead. The plan is for this group to sort of run wild and not be overly moderated. Critique is generally welcomed here, so if you post your images here they may be critically commented on. If you want harsh critique, indicate that fact in your image's description field. We encourage you to: (1) Add your image to the Flickr map so others can see where it was taken. (2) Set your account to expose your EXIF camera settings so others can learn more from your example. (3) Upload the largest size possible so others can view in detail the image sharpness, etc. (4) Apply a Creative Commons Attribution license so others can build on and recognize your work. (5) Help make your work be more "interesting" by adding a robust title, description, and tags.

Firefox Extensions for Flickr

• http://www.flickr.com/people/mikebaird/ says...
• How to vastly improve your Flickr browsing experience (reduce number of clicks by 10X) using Firefox (the only browser I use), Firefox Add-ons, and Greasemonkey Scripts. Download and install the Firefox Browser (which is much better than Internet Explorer) from www.mozilla.com/en-US/firefox/?from=getfirefox .
Add the Greasemonkey Firefox Add-on addons.mozilla.org/en-US/firefox/addon/748 . (Add-ons extend Firefox, letting you personalize your browsing experience.) Go to userscripts.org/ - search there for "Flickr" or say "Flickr Exif" - sort by number of "installs" and you will find the most popular and useful scripts. Here are some I like to use currently... these are managed in Firefox under Tools > Greasemonkey > Manage User Scripts.
Experiment with what works for you. New and updated scripts are constantly being added. This list is current as of May 2008. Better Flickr 0.3, Flickr Groups Organiser, Flickr Exif Info, Flickr Exif Decorator, Flickr image unblocker, Flickr Buddy Icon Reply, Flickr - Multi Group Sender, Flickr Rich Edit, Flickr Auto Page, Flickr Group Page Enhancer, Flickr Refer Comment, FlickrPM, Flickr Photostream Graphr, Flickr Contacts Organiser, Flickr MultiMailer.
FlickrDown (untested?) (download Groups...)
Flickr Original (untested?) (download original from thumbnail)
Saleen Flickr Downloader (rec'd by Kevin Cole)
Steeev's Flickr Projects contain the most valuable and comprehensive scripts of all - no contest!*
Also make sure you have Exif Viewer by Alan Raskin

Discover Paradigm: Search vs. browse

- Application Program Interfaces (APIs) allow discovery of your images. e.g., Flickriver (view by recent, interesting...). Example "Morro Bay Sea Otter"

Wikimedia Commons

- commons.wikimedia.org
- 1000's of Wikipedians scour Flickr for images to be added to a 5 million archive
- Check out your images that made Wikimedia Commons - if you use Flickr and use the Creative Commons Attribution license (highly encouraged), your images are very likely making their way (through the efforts of many Wikipedians worldwide) into a perpetual existence - your only significant legacy perhaps.
- Wikimedia Commons is a media file repository making available public domain and freely-licensed educational media content (images, sound and video clips) to everyone, in their own language. It acts as a common repository for the various projects of the Wikimedia Foundation, but you do not need to belong to one of those projects to use media hosted here. The repository is created and maintained not by paid-for artists but by volunteers.
